MAYOR'S MESSAGE

On behalf of Surrey City Council, I am pleased to present the 2012 Annual Report Highlights for the City of Surrey.

As a result of thorough planning and careful decision making, Surrey continues to maintain its healthy financial position. The management of resources during this past year has ensured that Surrey residents and businesses will continue to reap substantial benefits, allowing them to sow into an even brighter future.

With a vibrantly diverse and growing population of nearly 500,000, Surrey is on track to becoming B.C.'s next metropolitan centre. This astounding population growth has been accompanied by major investments into the City's social and transportation infrastructure. Robust development has been occurring, with diligent planning to ensure the facilitation of sustainable community living.

A number of important initiatives have generated robust economic growth within the City. The Build Surrey program continues to unfold, as ongoing capital projects are completed and new ones are undertaken. The New City Hall, planned for completion in 2013, made significant progress in 2012. Build Surrey is carrying on as the most comprehensive construction program in Surrey's history.

With the hard work and support of our administration, residents, businesses and community leaders, Surrey is destined for a prosperous future. City Council takes pride in the City's enviable financial position and remains committed to maintaining healthy finances, while planning a City of the future with great anticipation.

Sincerely,

FINANCE REPORT

The Finance & Technology Department ensures that all relevant applications and technologies meet the compliance requirements of the Payment Card Industry so that the public can conveniently use direct payment in all City facilities.

REPORT from the General Manager, Finance & Technology

It is my pleasure to submit the City of Surrey's financial highlights for the year ended December 31, 2012.

The external auditors KPMG LLP has given the City an unqualified audit opinion on the City's Consolidated Financial Statements, stating that in their professional opinion, the Consolidated Financial Statements present fairly, in all material respects, the consolidated financial position of the City of Surrey as at December 31, 2012 in accordance with Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards.

The construction of new facilities under the 'Build Surrey' Program continued to bolster development throughout the City during the year. The City Centre has attracted significant development interest over 2012 and is expected to continue to be a significant location for development activity and new businesses in the coming years. Surrey's growth in 2012 accelerated in comparison to 2011.

The City's revenues totaled $702.6 million in 2012, which is an increase in comparison to revenues of $646.5 million that were collected in 2011. This increase was attributable primarily to new growth within the community and increased capital contributions from the Federal and Provincial governments for infrastructure-related projects.

The City's expenses totaled $554.9 million in 2012, which was an increase in comparison to expenses of $535.4 million in 2011. This increase was attributable to increases in operating costs related to the opening of new civic facilities and an increase in the amounts that were paid under the RCMP contract for police services. In addition, expenditures on infrastructure-related projects increased.

The City's investment policy outlines how City funds are invested to achieve reasonable returns and with investment security while meeting the City's cash flow requirements. The average portfolio balance related to the City's investments during 2012 was $670.8 million, which earned $22.0 million in interest in 2012, of which $3.0 million was allocated to deferred development cost charges. The average rate of return during 2012 on the City's investment portfolio was 3.05%.

The City's statutory reserve funds amount to $67.6 million at the end of 2012 compared to a balance of $100.6 million at the end of 2011. This decrease is mainly due to the funding requirements of the projects being constructed under the Build Surrey Program. The deferred development cost charge balance at the end of 2012 was $216.3 million, which is an increase over the balance of $183.9 million at the end of 2011. This is a reflection of the City's steady development activity. These funds will be used to fund capital projects that are listed in the City's current Five-Year Financial Plan.

While the balance in cash and investments has decreased to $663.6 million at the end of 2012 from $675.7 million at the end of 2011, the City continues to maintain a strong financial position.

The City will continue to grow and transform the way it conducts business. The implementation of a new financial system will be completed in 2013. Many of the City's administrative functions will be moving to a New City Hall in Surrey City Centre in the fall of 2013. The City will continue to expand its infrastructure under the Build Surrey Program to accommodate the demands of growth. In this regard, two new aquatic centres are under construction and are expected to be completed in 2014. In addition, planning is underway for the construction by means of a public/private partnership of the largest Organics Biofuel Facility in Canada. These are just a few of the multitude of activities with which City staff is involved in addition to the on-going day-to-day delivery of municipal services to a City that has reached a population of nearly 500,000 residents. Despite the pressures of growth, Surrey continues to provide its property owners with low property tax rates in comparison to the region and larger cities across Canada.

Under the direction of City Council, the City of Surrey is well positioned to continue to deliver high quality services for its residents and businesses in support of a continued high quality of life. The City's tag line, "the future lives here", aptly characterizes the growing, exciting, youthful city that Surrey has become.
